

AABI sponsored a special workshop in early June in Atlanta that began the conversation between Academia and Industry, including the U.S. Air Force, exploring solutions to expand the pilot pipeline through proven pathways. We want to support the expansion of AABI-accredited flight education programs and partner with regional airline members and the military to provide a continued and sustainable pool of pilots for the future. Let's continue that conversation. On Wednesday, July 19th in Kalamazoo, Michigan, AABI will hold a Town Hall Meeting titled Public-Private Partnership (3P) – Paths to Wings to do just that.

Panelists for Paths to Wings will include: Ms. Lynne McMullen, Seneca College; Col. CJ Will, the United States Air Force; Dr. James Birdsong, Auburn University; Dr. Elizabeth Bjerke, University of North Dakota; Mr. Levi Carroll, Cape Air/Nantucket Airlines; Capt. Jose Caballero, JetBlue Airways; and Ms. Cindy Hasselbring, Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association (AOPA).

Plan now to attend and have a voice in this important dialogue!
